

Observer-Reporter

Briefs

Saturday, October 29, 2005

Catholic organization honors local schools

Five Catholic high schools – Aquinas Academy in Gibsonia, Oakland Catholic in Pittsburgh, Our Lady of the Sacred Heart in Coraopolis, Quigley Catholic in Beaver County and Seton LaSalle in Mt. Lebanon – have been recognized by the Catholic High School Honor Roll as among the 50 best Catholic high schools in the United States.

The Honor Roll annually recognizes excellence in three main areas: academics, Catholic identity and civic education. Nearly 1,300 Catholic high schools were invited to apply by completing a set of surveys, according to a release from the Catholic Diocese of Pittsburgh.